EXCLUSIVE

Yesterday evening, just days after the royal christening of Prince Edward, our beloved Queen Jane died at Hampton Court Palace. It is believed that she died from difficulties caused by the birth of her precious son, Prince Edward. King Henry's joy at having a son has been replaced by great sadness at the loss of his young wife.

A Kindly Queen

Queen Jane worked hard to bring the Royal Family together. She loved and cared for the princesses, Mary and Elizabeth. Indeed, Princess Mary is Prince Edward's godmother. Princess Elizabeth also played an important role in the royal christening ceremony.

She was a religious and god fearing woman. Her aim was to make King Henry a happy man.

King Henry's Great Loss

King Henry called Jane "My one true wife". He loved her dearly. One of Jane's ladies in waiting, Lady Priscilla Plunkett, tells us that "Henry adored Jane. When the Queen was pregnant with Prince Edward she wanted to eat quail but none was available in England, so Henry ordered her quail from Calais and Flanders."

It is thought that Queen Jane will be buried at St George's Chapel at Windsor Castle, where our own dear King has been preparing his own tomb.

Will our grief filled King Henry ever marry again? We all wonder who could ever take young Queen Jane's place. Young Prince Edward has no mother to comfort him or care for him. It is a sad day for everyone in England.
